THE TERRITORIES.

There is some activity noted in the real estate market at Vancouver.

It rained fishing worms in great numbers at Salt Lake City on the 22d ult.

An insane man, Chas. Testman, was taken, on Friday of last week, by the steamer North Pacific from Seattle to the Insane Asylum.

The taxable property in Pierce county, W. T., foots up $692,027 75, an increase of some five or six thousand dollars over last year.

An Indian was found dead near Silver City, last week. It is supposed he committed suicide as the top of his head was blown off.

Job Hood, who has mined at various points on this coast "since the days of '49," died suddenly in Silver City, Idaho, on the 21st ult.

Ship building on the Sound promises to be quite lively during the summer. A fine propeller is being built at Freeport by the Reed Brothers of San Francisco.

The schooner Anna Beck, from Victoria, laden with molasses, sugar, etc., for Neah Bay, was seized at Port Townsend recently for an infraction of the revenue laws.

Numerous citizens of Clarke county have petitioned the Government of Washington Territory, to pardon Jackson Pence, convicted of burglary and sent up for 18 months.

Albert Merchant, well known on the Sound, was arrested in Victoria the other day, charged with being in an Indian shanty, and having in his possession three bottles of intoxicating liquors.

Rufus King, late postmaster at Silver City, who is now in jail at Boise, awaiting his trial on a charge of defrauding the Government out of $3,500, by means of forged postal orders, etc., claims that his conduct was "regular."

At a meeting of the Tumwater Literary Association, on the 21st ult., the trustees reported the total cost of their hall to be $1,143 44; amount due the association, $34; amount in the treasury, $21 25; and the indebtedness of the association, $500 currency.

The tax list of Clarke county for 1873 has been turned over to the Treasurer. The total assessment for 1873 of the county is $689,471. Taxes divided as follows: County and Special County, $8,273 65, Territorial, $2,757 88; School, $2,757 88; Poll, $970.

On the 28th there were three vessels at Seattle, the Gen. Cobb, (company vessel) and two foreign ships the Portlaw and Ligonia. The Portlaw will sail in about eight days. They will carry away about 800,000 feet of lumber each. Both are bound for South America.

Frederick C. Cross, a native of the State of Maine, and aged about 25 years, was accidentally killed, near Steilacoom, on the 21st of November, 1872. The father of the deceased is a blacksmith, living at Oysterville or Castorville, Maine. Relatives or friends of the deceased are requested to correspond with J. W. Remer, Steilacoom, Washington Territory.

The Olympia Tribune of the 30th ult. says: "Mr. John Gove, an old settler with a fine house and farm on Skookumchuck, lost his dwelling by fire one day last week. He and his family were out at work, and the house and all its contents were destroyed. On Tuesday, Mr. Robarts and family, on Mound Prairie, met with a similar misfortune, losing their house, furniture and clothing. Mrs. R. had her hand badly burned, and, in her excitement, barely saved her life."

A correspondent of the Prescott Miner says: "No fact in connection with Arizona is more true than that the system of contracts for army supplies is an execrable nuisance; by means of which the people and the Government are robbed to enrich fraudulent contractors or corrupt officers. Besides being a system of deliberate frauds, it is also one of costly blunders, as is shown by the statement of the Delegate to Congress, that the wrong action in letting last year's contracts cost more than would build the military telegraph."

Rev. Mr. Pence lately arrived at Boise City from Payette river; he says the settlers in that vicinity are very much alarmed, have called a meeting and organized a military company. He thinks the Indians are collecting in great numbers on the Upper Weiser river, with bad intent, and the fact of the matter is the whole country is stirred up on the subject. Bannack Jim is said to be on his way to Payette with 100 warriors. He is a bad Indian. 300 Indians from the reservation and Fort Harney are also on their way to Upper Weiser.

The Ogden Junction says: "Brigham Young has contributed $100 toward defraying the expenses of Decoration Day at Camp Douglas. 'Tis touching to the old soldiers who came to Utah years ago with Uncle Sam's troops to see this lively devotion for decking the last resting places of their fallen comrades, made by one who caused them to shoulder their muskets and trudge slowly and wearily across the vast deserts of the plains to enforce him to obey the laws of the Government which they loved to serve. But he should do more. With staff in hand and with an humble, penitent spirit he should plod his weary way to the green fields of Mountain Meadows, and there, with suffused tears, water the lowly flowers blooming o'er the unhonored graves of his slaughtered victims."

The Salt Lake Tribune treats its libel suits coolly thus. "And now comes Mr. Gardner, 'assayer' and mining 'expert,' and says we have damaged him to the tune of $80,000, by the publication of General Harrison's card, relative to the great swindle at Camp Floyd. He therefore seeks to collect that small amount of the Tribune, just to make him comfortable for the rest of his life, and to avoid the necessity of reporting on any other mining property in Utah. This second $80,000 libel suit makes us the best sued paper in America. Still our ambition will not be thoroughly satisfied until 'Col.' Jones and 'Col.' Tichenor—the silver brick men—shall enter suit for $80,000 apiece, making in all $320,000, for so far each man concerned in the sale of the Stafford Mine has estimated his damages at that sum, and as estimating seems to be the forte of some of the gentlemen we trust they will follow it up well."

Cheering Prospects in Washington County.

HILLSBORO, May 31st, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

At a regular meeting of the Washington County Farmers' Club, held at Hillsboro today, Mr. S. A. Holcomb was chosen delegate to the Farmers' Convention to be held at Salem, June 10th, 1873. From the opportunity afforded by the meeting, I learn that the prospects were never better for a good crop, in fact, inquiry was needless, as the tone showed that everything was working satisfactorily, and that the farmers were in the best of spirits. The opinion prevailing is, that enough rain has fallen to insure full spring crops, while the grass is excellent. Stock is doing first-rate, the epizootic being so mild as to not materially interfere with work. There is now but one "if" in the farmer's way, and that is freight tariffs and convenient facilities for shipping. I would infer from what I was able to gather from different localities, that a general breaking up of dull times is at hand, as the farmers will feel justified in purchasing the necessary articles and implements for the summer use. Washington county has every reason to feel encouraged. The improvements exceed those of any former year, and are of a more substantial character, and the prospects in all departments are certainly flattering.

OREGON.

Nearly all the horses in Wasco county are sick.

Col. C. A. Reed, of Salem, is putting the lava beds on canvas.

T. Raney has been appointed a guardian of the city's peace at Corvallis.

The Corvallis Gazette is nine and a half years old, and a very good paper it is.

Nearly a car load of furs were shipped from Roseburg on Thursday of last week.

The excavation for the foundation of the Capitol buildings at Salem has been completed.

It is now decided that the coming Fourth of July will be appropriately celebrated in Corvallis.

There wasn't enough measles to go round at Roseburg, and the mumps have been substituted.

The closing exercises of the term at the Corvallis Agricultural College, will begin on Monday, June 9th.

A cattle buyer in Wasco county is charged with having driven off more than he bought, and has been arrested and taken back to Umatilla.

Jas. McCord, sentenced from Linn county three years ago for rape, was discharged from the Penitentiary last Saturday, his term having expired.

From a flock of 78 yearling lambs Dan. Raymond, of Douglas county, sheared 702 pounds of wool, being an average of nine pounds to the head.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Washington County Agricultural Society at Hillsboro on Saturday June 7th, at 1 o'clock, P. M.

B. F. Dowell is collecting specimens to send to Rev. Thomas Condon, State Geologist of Oregon. He would be glad to get articles from all parts of the Pacific coast.

Mr. Levi Leland organized a Good Templar's Lodge in Willamette Precinct, Lane county, on the 24th ult., with 50 charter members. R. C. Warriner is W. C. T.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: Freight teams are doing a good business lately, especially between this point and Roseburg, most of our dealers preferring that route.

A quartz lead is reported to have been discovered on the Clackamas river, about thirty-five miles east of Oregon City, which contains quite a large percentage of galena ore.

Up to last Friday morning, in the Circuit Court for Polk county, no jury had been empanneled in the Glass Whitley damage suit, although two large venires had been exhausted.

J. S. Spray, the father of a family of ten persons, arrived at Corvallis from Page county, Iowa, and will probably locate in Benton county. Mr. S., like many others, is tired of cold winters.

Several nights last week a fire was plainly visible on the top of Skinner's Butte, some eight miles from Jacksonville, and it was conjectured by some that it might be an Indian signal fire.

Gen. Mart. V. Brown, of the Albany Democrat, has accepted an invitation to deliver the Anniversary Address before the Literary Society of the Corvallis College at the coming Commencement.

Mr. William Hughes, of Rock creek, was chased by five Indians one day last week, but owing to the superior speed of his horse he managed to get away from them. So says the Dalles paper.

Mr. James Greer, his daughter and a lad named Hubbard, of Corvallis, were all spilled out of a buggy last week, their horse becoming frightened. Mr. G. and his daughter were pretty badly bruised.

The various committees appointed at the Farmers' State Convention are requested to meet at Salem on Monday, June 9, 1873, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the perfecting of their reports for the Convention to meet on the 10th.

Ten of the U. S. rifles sent to Wasco county were put into the hands of the settlers on Rock creek. The people of that neighborhood are said to be building a fort, to be better protected in case of any trouble with Indians.

Arrangements have been effected and machinery purchased for the speedy construction of a staunch and commodious steamer on the Yaquina river. The boat will be built at some point near Elk City, and will be completed about the last of July.

Coaches are now run through without change from Roseburg to Redding, to the disgust of drivers who have been accustomed to keeping their own coach and taking care of it. It saves trouble, however, in changing mail and baggage at the different home stations.

Gov. Grover, on last Tuesday, appointed Jeremiah Doherty, of the Dalles, a member of the Board of Commissioners for the construction of the wagon road from Sandy, along the south bank of the Columbia river, to the Dalles, vice Geo. W. Waldron, resigned.

The new Cumberland church edifice in Junction City will be dedicated on the fourth Sunday in June. Rev. T. H. Henderson, of Salem, will preach the dedicatory sermon. This church was built, we understand, mainly through the instrumentality and labors of Rev. C. A. Woolley.

The Mountaineer of last Saturday says: "The farmers of Fifteen Mile creek report having had a severe frost on Tuesday night last that cut to the ground the growing corn, potatoes and other vegetables. We are informed, however, that the grain and grass crops are doing exceedingly well."

The various literary societies of Willamette University have united in an invitation to Hon. J. F. Caples of Portland, to address them during commencement week. Mr. Caples has accepted the invitation, and the address will be delivered Monday evening, June 9th, at the University chapel.

The Indian who was arrested in Umatilla county, a short time ago, for trying to commit rape, was bound over to appear at the next session of the Circuit Court in that county. When first captured, a large number of the settlers were in favor of hanging him, but better counsel prevailed, and he was turned over to the civil authorities.

The Benton Democrat says: "From all sections of Oregon we he hear the most flattering reports from the crop prospects. In Benton county, especially, the yield will be excellent, and the acreage sown exceeds that of last year. A rain during the week has given our fields a fresh start, and the prospect for good times ahead was never better."

The town of Gaston in Washington county is improving quite rapidly. Several weeks ago a Sabbath School was organized and collections taken up on two Sabbaths amounted to $17 25, enough to pay for a library and other necessary books. An effort is now being made to build a church edifice 25x40 feet, to cost about $500, when completed.

Corvallis is a poor place for saloons. The Gazette says: On last Monday Jas. H. Stewart, a retired saloon keeper, was seen at the honorable and lucrative business of "splitting rails." On the same day Mr. A. H. Perham, was engaged with a pick and shovel in "mortising a hole in the ground" for a cistern. Another saloon keeper "froze out" and left. We have now only three saloons and one beer shop in Corvallis.

During the Circuit Court in Washington county, before Judge Upton, an attorney was making a long wearisome speech on a motion to strike out the prayer of the plaintiff, when he was interrupted by the Court with, "I never yet heard of anything in the Constitution or the Holy Bible that forbade a man praying for anything in heaven or on earth he wanted. But the trouble is to get it."

A letter from Harrisburg last week says: "Yesterday we met a gentleman from the 'Belknap Settlement,' in Benton county, who reports having had no rain up to that date. But it has been quite different here. For the past ten days we have had sufficient rain to wet the ground enough for plowing, and vegetation is growing nicely. It seems so strange that there should be such a difference in two localities—only fifteen miles apart.

The Farmers' Club at Springfield, at its last meeting passed the following: "Resolved, That our delegate to the State Convention, which will meet June 10, 1873, is hereby authorized to introduce a resolution similar to the following: 'Resolved, That we, the farmers of Oregon, do pledge ourselves to vote for no man as a member of our next Legislature who will not pledge himself, if elected, to vote for the enactment of a law regulating fares and freights on the rivers and railroads of Oregon.'"

The surveying party that started out a short time ago to survey the road being opened between Linkville and Ashland, after surveying two weeks, ceased operations last Saturday on account of Superintendent Mason deeming it advisable, on account of the reported hostile attitude of Ochoco's band of Indians, to look after his family on Goose Lake. The road was surveyed to the 24-mile post, a quarter of a mile beyond Jenny Creek. The distance, as compared with the old road, was reduced one mile. The altitude on the summit between Green Springs and Keen creek is 500 feet higher than the pass in the Siskiyou mountains on the stage road.

There are at least 200,000 sheep in Douglas county at present. They will yield, in consequence of the mild winter, favorable spring and abundance of grass, an average of five pounds to the fleece, making 1,000,000 pounds, worth $250,000. The beautiful climate, rich soil, abundance of water and grassy slopes, foot hills and table lands of this country make it peculiarly adapted for raising sheep and wool to advantage. There is, however, a wide margin for great improvements in breed and blood of the average sheep of the country. Proper attention to this would secure double the present average pounds of wool to the fleece, and the same proportion in the advance price of the wool.

From a gentleman who has just returned from the Siletz Reservation, the Benton Democrat learns that the Indians are busy with their agricultural pursuits, and have put in good crops. They are peaceably disposed, not the slightest dissatisfaction existing among them. This gentleman has been acquainted with these Indians for twenty years, and says he never saw them more quiet and industrious. All are highly pleased with their new Agent, Mr. Fairchilds, who is fast gaining the friendship of the whites and confidence of the Indians. The Indians of Alsea Reservation have mostly received passes to go on fishing expeditions. The late excitement in regard to threatened outbreaks, etc., is to have been entirely uncalled for, and is almost forgotten.

W. J. Campbell, writing to the Farmer, says: "On the 9th of May I arrived in Polk county, and organized Oak Plain Grange, with thirty members: James Tatom, Master; L. W. Robertson, Secretary; Postoffice, Independence, Polk county. On the 10th, at 1 o'clock P. M., I organized Monmouth Grange, with nineteen members: L. Bentley, Master; I. F. M. Butler, Secretary; Postoffice, Monmouth, Polk county. And at 7 P. M. I organized Buena Vista Grange with sixteen members: G. A. Wells, Master; E. C. Hall, Secretary; Postoffice, Buena Vista, Polk county. On the 13th I organized Oak Plain Grange, with nineteen members: J. H. Bramwell, Master; T. J. Black, Secretary; Postoffice, Halsey, Linn county. On the 14th, I organized Tangent Grange, with twenty three members: G. W. Vernon, Master; Alfred Blevins, Secretary; Postoffice, Tangent, Linn county.

From the annual circular of the Willamette University, just issued, we learn that the eighth regular course of lectures will commence with the public address on the evening of the fourth day of November next. A preliminary course of lectures will commence on Monday, the 6th day of October. In order to further the interests of the College by advancement with the progress of Medical Science, and also to carry out the wishes of the American Medical Association as expressed in a resolution adopted at their annual meeting at San Francisco, May, 1871, where they "recommended a chair of Hygiene, to be established in all our medical schools, and constituted a requisite curriculum, preliminary to that diploma which confers the highest honor of the profession." The Faculty have, in concurrence with the Trustees, created the chair of Hygiene, and elected Dr. O. P. S. Plummer as its Professor. The Faculty of the Department of Medicine and Surgery, finding that the apartments allotted to them in the University were insufficient to meet their requirements, and that also by being so far from the business center of the city it was inconvenient both to the lecturers and patients, who, availing themselves of the dispensary, have secured and fitted up a suite of rooms in Moore's brick block on Commercial street, where every convenience can be obtained. In looking over the list of graduates we find that about fifty persons have passed the chairs since 1867. Dr. H. Carpenter is Dean of the Faculty, who will furnish any information necessary.

Indian Difficulties in Chewaucan Valley.

[From the Salem Mercury]

FORT SCOTT, CHEWAUCAN VALLEY,
JACKSON COUNTY, May 15, 1873.

To Your Excellency, L. F. Grover, Salem, Oregon DEAR SIR—Since my last of May 6th, our situation has become very dangerous. We are surrounded on all sides by hostile Indians, and we have used all possible means to procure protection from the military, but we have failed both in arms and men. We are now forted up in the best way we can, leaving our houses and property to the mercy of the red savages, and some of our houses have already been plundered. And we pray your Excellency to send us protection, if it be in your power, both men and arms. Our situation is the most critical one in this country, we being surrounded on all sides. Troops stationed at Sprague's river and Goose Lake would be of no use to us from the fact that the Indians are nearer to us than the troops. And we therefore pray your Excellency to give us one company of troops to be stationed in this valley, upon the Chewaucan river, a central point in this valley and Summer Lake valley.

Hoping that this will meet with your hearty approval and earliest possible response, we ever remain your most humble servants.

The undersigned are the heads of families now here in the fort: H. Fuller, J. B. Blair, G. Hayding, D. Avery, P. Hamilton, Sam. Hadley, G. W. Avery, H. A. Fuller, P. Scott, J. Avis, S. Moss, R. B. Chamberlin.

We send this under cover of night by special courier

FORT SCOTT, CHEWAUCAN VALLEY,
Six o'clock P. M., May 15th.

Gov. Grover—Since writing this morning notifying your Excellency of our situation, the Indians attaked some of our men who were herding cattle, the Indians making the first attack and our men acting on the defense. The Indians were repulsed, our men killing one and taking two prisoners. There are from one to two hundred of them in sight. Yours in haste,

HENRY FULLER

One of the above prisoners attempting to escape was shot.

The lightkeepers at Race Rocks lighthouse pass their spare time at making a landing by blasting and removing large rocks and forming a breakwater, under the able superintendence of the Chief Keeper, Mr. Argyle.

THE CALIFORNIA INDIAN WAR!

Details of the Last Scout.

Scar-Faced Charley, Old Sconchin and Ten other Indians Surrender.

Capt. Jack and three others Decamp.

CAMP ON THE BANK OF WILLOW CREEK, 21 miles northeast of Boyles' Camp, or Tule Lake Peninsula, May 29—7 P. M.—The cavalry and artillery commands and the Warm Springs Indians, all under Col. Green, left Boyles' camp at 2 o'clock this morning, and rode in hot haste to the Applegate mansion on Clear Lake, where Gen. Davis issued special orders for the scout mentioned in my previous dispatch. Bogus Charley, Steamboat Frank, Shack nasty Jim and Hooka Jim accompanied the expedition, to lead the way to Jack's Willow creek retreat. The captives were loyal to the core. They led the troops to a point near Jack's haunt without the slightest attempt at dodging the issue. Within a mile of the stronghold, Capt. Hasbrouck passed up the north side of the creek with his squadron, and Capt. Jackson took his squadron over the creek, and along the south side. Capt. Hasbrouck having had a mile further to travel than Capt. Jackson, did not arrive at the stronghold in time to accomplish a desired co-operation, but Jack was nevertheless surprised.

At two o'clock this afternoon Jackson's men came across two pickets on the bluff near the creek and ran them through the juniper to Jack's retreat. The fleeing Modocs cried out in their native language, "Run quick! run quick! soldiers coming!"

Capt. Jackson deployed his skirmishers along the face of the bluff with admirable skill, though expecting to receive a heavy fire. The men ran to the front, like deer under the lead of the officers. The roar of musketry was not heard; instead thereof was a painful silence. Suddenly the Modocs conversant with English cried out, "Surrender! surrender! we no fight; we want to talk peace! we like peace talk!" Then the well known figure of Boston Charley, the murderer of Rev. Dr. Thomas, came in full view and was immediately covered by a dozen or more rifles. Charley offered to surrender, and was allowed to come into camp.

As he neared the Warm Springs scouts he threw down his rifle, and extended his hand in token of friendship. The proffered hand was cordially grasped by the scouts. Charley was then passed to the rear with a guard. Next he was taken to the other Modoc captives and by them interviewed. He said that several of Jack's best warriors wanted to leave him and come into our camp, and volunteered to put up the job. His gun was returned to him and he was allowed to depart on his mission. Hardly had this arrangement been effected, when a rifle in the hands of Steamboat Frank was accidentally discharged. Several Modocs who stood with uplifted hands, 'stamped at this point, but the [illegible] was explained to Charley and all suspicions of foul play were removed from his mind.

Another accident caused Charley more annoyance. Capt. Hasbrouck's command reached the edge of the creek as Charley came over the bluff, and, of course, he was gathered in as a prisoner for the second time. Two hours afterward, he was released and sent after the fleeing Modocs. He failed to overtake them. No shot other than the accidental one, was fired. Had Hasbrouck formed the desired connection in time, the entire band would have been killed or captured. It was impossible for his command to reach the bluff. His troops did all that could be done by any men. They rode over fourteen miles and one mile farther than the distance ridden by Jackson's command. The surprise resulted in the surrender of Boston Charley, Princess Mary, who is the sister of Capt. Jack, Black Jim's squaw, and five other female Modocs from nine to ninety years of age, and the capture of seven ponies and mules, about half and half. Take it all in all, the affair had many curious features.

The Modocs actually slipped from the grasp of the troops. There was no help for it. Jack's retreat at this time was in the side of the canyon through which runs Willow creek. The canyon has precipitous sides, composed of solid rock, and averaging forty feet in height. There are few places the canyon can be entered by troops within six miles of Jack's last home. The Modocs escaped by running down the canyon. Some now the Modoc captives will try to win more of Jack's warriors from him. Many officers predict a speedy settling out of the war. We sleep among the junipers to-night and expect a snow storm before morning.

BUNKER.

LANGELL'S VALLEY, May 30—5 A. M.—At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the troops left Willow Creek camp for a sharp and decisive scout, and met with admirable success. The Warm Springs trailed the Modocs across the creek, in a northeasterly direction, then due north, and finally to the rocky cliff bordering Langell valley on the east. This scout, from the outset, was the most exciting of the campaign. The freshness of the track, and the apparent close proximity of the Modocs, maintained a continued excitement. The trail led over ridges and mountains, along canyons and valleys, and over small streams of water. The route was traveled with difficulty by the best trained horses. Miles upon miles of lava, in a fragmentary form, were crossed. Our troops literally left behind them a trail of blood and horseshoes.

Several miles south of the valley the scouts lost the trail and we suffered a detention of two hours. The halt was broken by sudden yells from the Warm Springs and cheers from the soldiers. The command "Forward" was given by Col. Green and away we sped. The scouts scattered out to the right and left of the line and covered the trail, then came Troop K, of the First Cavalry, Maj. Cresson commanding, and Lieut. Bacon in charge of the skirmishers. Troop K belonged to the squadron of Capt. Jackson. Captain Hasbrouck's squadron held another equally important position and was as usual on time along the crest of the bluff and down the steep trail on its side charged the entire force of 230 men. Never have I seen a more beautiful military movement.

The air was cool and clear. The horses were excited by the chase and the men on the qui vive for shots. Suddenly four rifle shots were fired from the rocks and four bullets whizzed over the soldiers. A line of skirmishers were deployed along the crest of the bluff, and started the Modocs from their lair. About this time, Scarfaced Charley and two or three other Modoc rascals of note, rushed down from the rocks and cried out "we surrender! don't shoot." Five of the Modocs came in at once, and hostilities ceased. By this time it was dark.

Dr. Cabaness, of Yreka, contract surgeon, who has long been acquainted with the Modocs, went up among the rocks and made peace negotiations. All the Indians, including Jack, agreed to come in. Cabaness slept with them last night.

A few moments since, Scar faced Charley, Old Sconchin and ten other warriors, came in and surrendered. Jack and three others decamped by night. The Modoc war is over.

Bringing Them to the Point.

LAFAYETTE, May 30, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I see by your paper that Mr. W. B. Daniels denies peddling tracts to defeat Dave Logan. If he wants the statement of a hundred responsible citizens of this county, that he did distribute the notorious "Adams letter" in this county, a few days before the June election of 1868, he can get it. Squire Daniels used to be well thought of here, but his present associates are not such that we can always expect him to be truthful.

CITIZEN.

The New York Tribune of May 20th says:

The Rev. Mr. Ancient, of Terence Bay, who is so widely and honorably known in connection with the loss of the Atlantic, is to be transferred to be the Assistant Curate of Trinity Church. We hardly know whether to be glad or sorry. That Mr. Ancient should be spared privations and introduced to a more agreeable field of labor, is a pleasant fact, but the example of one conscientious clergyman exercising his sacred functions without fashionable encouragement, and without so enormous salary, was almost to costly to lose.

MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1873.

A Little More Restraint Needed.

While we are talking about reform in the management of the finances of the city, why would it not be in place to push the matter a little further, and not stop at the city government? There are some things in connection with the administration of the county's affairs that certainly need "reforming," and others that need reforming or explaining. The expenses of the county government are divided between the city and the adjacent country, but the bulk of them is paid by the city. The bulk of them is also made up of expenditures that chiefly benefit the city, and by the cost of proceedings, civil and criminal, that originate in the city. So that in the county government the people of the city are interested as directly as in the city government. The taxes of the county are high, notwithstanding the increase of the value of taxable property has vastly exceeded the increase of population for the past few years. We do not know whether there are any very considerable leaks in the County Treasury, but there must be such somewhere, or else there are a great many small ones. Of the latter class, we might refer to an instance. The county made a contract about a year and a half ago with one of the most eminent and respected physicians of the city for him to attend the patients at the County Hospital for one year for $750. The physician entered upon his duties, and continued in the discharge of them to the entire satisfaction of the county authorities till after the general election of last June. Soon after that event he was notified that his services were no longer needed, his successor having been appointed. This took him by surprise, as it was a direct violation of the contract between him and the county. Inquiry revealed two or three facts of a still more surprising character. It turned out that the two Commissioners, who sit with the Judge in transacting county business, and who had just been elected, had made the order removing the physician and appointing his successor, against the advice of His Honor, Judge Hamilton, who even went so far as to spread his protest against the act upon the records of the court. This protest sets forth at length his reasons for opposing the change. The nature of the reasons will be comprehended at once when it is stated that Dr. Watkins was the physician removed, and J. S. Giltner the person appointed in his place; and that the salary was raised some hundreds of dollars.

Then there was naturally some curiosity among those who were informed of these facts, to know what in the world could have caused any intelligent Commissioners to remove such a man as Dr. Watkins, a learned and eminent physician and a gentleman of unblemished character, who was so discharging his duties that no one complained of him, and to put in his place such a man as J. S. Giltner, at an increased salary. This curiosity set further inquiry on foot and, as we are informed, disclosed the following facts:

One of the two old Commissioners whose terms were about to expire, was known to be inimical to the ring's way of manipulating matters; the other they thought might possibly be a friend. This latter gentleman was visited by the chief of the ring, who stated that he, the chief, had promised Giltner that if he would act as a spy on certain gentlemen of the city who were not supposed to be friendly to the ring, he should have as compensation for this service the position of physician in the Hospital, with a certain specified increase of salary. He said Giltner had performed the stipulated services, and now he must have the position and the additional pay. The ring chieftain had therefore come to inquire of the Commissioner if, in case the ring would nominate him for re-election, he would, as Commissioner, carry out the agreement with Giltner. To this proposal the ring man received a positive refusal. They had mistaken the Commissioner. He was an honest man, and of course could not entertain so base a proposition for a moment. It is needless to state he was not re-nominated. The tax-payers of Portland are paying now a considerable amount of money to this man Giltner as wages for acting as a spy upon them. Other inferences the reader may draw at his leisure.

An Amusing Performance.

One of the most ludicrous incidents connected with the fizzle of the ring at Armory Hall, Saturday evening, is related to us by one of the parties to the transaction. A man whose name we do not care to mention, went to the back part of the little crowd where there had not been any manifestation of enthusiasm, and said to an acquaintance: "Why don't you cheer and stamp like everything whenever Malarkey begins to chuck his cane on the floor? That's the agreed signal for the rest of us to go by." With this gentle admonition, he returned to his place in the little band of faithful office-holders at the front. But still there was no cheering in the crowd when the signal was afterwards given, and the Superintendent of Cheering again visited his friend. This time there was a great emergency. Caples was already beginning to repeat that old and stale peroration which he rings in at the end of all his speeches, and it was known he must be about to close. Said the Superintendent of Cheering, "Come now, Dave, this won't do. Caples told me to get up three cheers for him at the end of his speech, and I want you to help me to do it." "Well, go in," was the reply. Caples closed, and he did "go in." Leaping to his feet he called out, "three rousing cheers for John F. Caples!" and with this he swung his hat in the air, and yelled like a Bengal tiger—once. His friend failed to come to the mark. Not a voice was raised but his own—and possibly Caples'. His one single yell, echoed sepulchral through the bare room, the performance was at an end, and he sat down amid the jeers of the crowd, about as badly cut up as it was possible for him to be.

Ralph Waldo Emerson met with a cordial welcome from his friends in Concord, on his return from his European tour, May 27th. A Boston dispatch states that his townsmen turned out in a body, and forming a procession with school children, escorted him to an elegant residence, which had been erected during his absence—a present from his friends. "Emerson was much surprised and gratified, and expressed, in his characteristic way, his thanks to his fellow-citizens for their kindness and sympathy at the return of an old man and his daughter.

The sum of nine thousand dollars has been subscribed in Halifax, Picton and New Glasgow, for the relief of the widows and orphans made destitute by the Drummond colliery disaster.

The Train Case.

The exact relation subsisting between George Francis Train and the damnatory clauses of the law de lunatico seems to be imperfectly understood. It will be remembered that in the trial on the indictment charging Mr. Train with sending obscene literature through the mails, the court directed the jury to find a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity, notwithstanding the Sheriff's jury had confessed him sane in fact. In accordance with the verdict, an order was immediately made out to send Train to the State lunatic asylum. The ink on the order was hardly dry before Judge Davis' associate on the Supreme bench—Judge Fancher—issued a writ of habeas corpus, returnable before him for argument to show why Mr. Train should not be released. On the 26th of May, Judge Fancher ordered the case committed to a Sheriff's jury for trial, saying that he would dispose of the writ according to their verdict. This inquiry into Train's insanity commenced May 28th. It is fair to presume that a given number of the wise men of Gotham are amusing themselves with Mr. Train's epigrams—at a small per diem.

The closing scene in the trial before Judge Davis was somewhat out of the routine of court procedure, and perhaps it is worth while to reproduce it as a sample of judicial curtness:

Judge—Gentlemen of the jury, you will acquit the prisoner on the ground of insanity, finding your verdict on that express ground.

Mr. Bell (Train's counsel)—We wish to be heard about the form of the verdict. It should be "guilty" or "not guilty."

Judge—You will find the prisoner "not guilty" on the ground of insanity.

Mr. Bell—We ask the jury to find a verdict of "not guilty."

Judge—Mr. Clerk, take the verdict of "not guilty" on the ground of insanity.

Foreman of the jury—We agree on that verdict. We find the prisoner at the bar not guilty on the ground of insanity.

Mr. Bell—We ask to have the jury polled.

Judge—No polling of this jury. The jury is discharged.

Mr. Bell—One juror, Mr. Low, states that it is not his verdict. Another one also says that it is not his.

Judge—The verdict is entered. That part of the case is disposed of. I do not care to hear anything further. Dr. Cross testified that this man's insanity continues. I shall direct an order to be entered that the prisoner be sent to a lunatic asylum.

Lawyer Howe—We have evidence to show that he is now sane.

Mr. Train—I wish to protest against this proceeding. I have been five months in jail and have had no trial here. He then sat down, but in a few moments again rose, saying, "Where am I to go? What am I to do?"

Judge—Sit down.

Train did so, but boiling over again, said, "I wish before I leave to move your impeachment in the name of the people."

Judge—Take your seat, sir.

A Washington dispatch of May 19th, says that the President has determined to appoint George Williamson, of Louisiana, minister resident at the Central American States. The new minister, says the dispatch, served under Kerby Smith in the South during the rebellion, but since has been a supporter of Republican principles. He is to visit the capitals of Guatemala, Costa Rica, Honduras, San Salvador and Nicaragua, before determining upon a permanent seat for the mission. President Grant prefers Gautemala. Of the new minister, it is said that he is a good diplomatist, and has the confidence of the State department.

We have conversed with several different persons who were present at the meeting of the little squad who manufactured the bogus call signed "Many Republicans," and these all assure us that the thing was as flat a failure and fizzle as it is possible to imagine. Only about a dozen persons took any share in the proceedings, and these were the Custom House employes, the City Attorney and Caples. Caples would make a motion, Mulkey would second it, and then the three would vote for it. Everything had been cut and dried beforehand, and the performance was only intended to be a hood-winking of the people into a ratification of the put up job. But there was not even an audience to witness the drama. The main portion of the crowd regarded it as a decided sell—except the music, which was good. They expected to see something with which to while away a tedious half-hour, although they did not intend to take any part in it themselves. They were hugely disappointed.

"Still harping on my daughter." The New York Herald says that Mr. Colfax has written to a friend in Paris a letter containing this sanguine and emphatic passage: "I never received a dollar from Ames on any account whatever—in check, in cash, in stock, or dividends or bonds. I have full faith that He who knoweth all things will, in His own good time, make my entire innocence of this cruel and wicked charge manifest to even the bitterest of my enemies.

The dispatches tell us of a very unique thing which Thomas Hughes did when the customary motion was made in Parliament to adjourn over Derby Day: he "protested against the practice and denounced as a public humiliation such action by Parliament in deference to what was called national sport." Now what the bloody hodds does all this mean? "To what base uses," etc., when one of the foremost men of England rises to denounce the "Derby?"

The antiquarians of Europe are in ecstacies again over the announcement that George Smith, the London Daily Telegraph's correspondent in Assyria, has found the King's library at Ninevah, and discovered numerous valuable fragments, particularly the missing portions of the broken tablet containing the history of the Deluge, so lately deciphered by Mr Smith and presented by him to the British Museum.

To judge from the following, taken from the Brainerd (Minn.) Tribune, one would suppose that in that State high regard for the gubernatorial office is sadly dilapidated "We don't know as we care a darn who is Governor while the capital remains at St. Paul, when we consider that he will, doubtless, be some one of Minneapolis, or St. Paul's old plugs."

The Secretary of War has concurred in the recommendations of the Chief of Ordnance, that the report of the board on small arms in favor of the Springfield breech loader be approved, and that arm is, therefore, entertained as the standard weapon for the use of the United States army.

If it was wrong for the Police Judge to have the fees, why wasn't it righted long ago—Bu

Because the city attorney, who is the proper officer to look after it, belongs to the ring, as well as the Police Judge.

The Express says: "The hops in the valley are from ten to twelve feet high; the timothy grass from twelve to fourteen inches high the grain presents a fine appearance, and a rich harvest is anticipated. The farmers are all busy finishing their spring work. The river at present is very low. J. L. Smith's surveying party is in the field, and the work is progressing rapidly."

A STATEMENT TO THE PEOPLE OF OREGON.

Inasmuch as certain articles have appeared in newspapers of recent dates reflecting in serious terms on my conduct in my native State (Pennsylvania) in early life, I submit to the people of Oregon, who have known me intimately for 12 years, the following statement and evidence in answer to the charges made in such articles.

In so far as the charges, first put in circulation by an anonymous correspondent, impute to me any dishonest act, I deny them, and each and all of them, positively, unequivocally and absolutely, and pronounce them and each of them wholly false. And I submit to the people of Oregon, that though it is a fact that I had my misfortunes in early life and encountered domestic troubles of painful character, resulting in separation and divorce—troubles which I trust your generous indulgence will permit me to pass in silence,—it is my privilege to be able to say that in all the time that I resided in Pennsylvania, I committed no wrong, nor did any act, that has ever lost to me the confidence or esteem either of my former law partner there, Colonel John M. Thompson—whom the articles in question charged me with wronging,—or of any one who had the intimate knowledge of my history that he had,—and so far as all the charges against me are concerned, I prefer rather than giving my own version, to abide by the testimony herewith submitted, coming as it does from men of prominent position and unimpeachable integrity, most of whom know personally my whole history in Pennsylvania from earliest boyhood, and all of whom have full knowledge of my reputation there now.

Any charge or pretence that I ever wronged my former partner, Colonel Thompson, or any other man in Pennsylvania, or elsewhere, out of one cent or any amount whatever, or ever attempted to do so, is untrue. That I ever had any difference or difficulty with that gentleman, as charged, or in any manner or for any reason, is equally false. On the contrary, I have always had, and still have, his confidence and respect.

It is true that at the time I left Pennsylvania the law firm, of which Colonel Thompson and myself were the only members, had an unsettled business, including an amount of outstanding accounts in which I had one-half interest. The firm was also indebted in certain amounts. Before leaving the State I transferred to my partner all my interest in said firm, together with certain other property, which at the time was believed to be amply sufficient to meet all demands; and the whole business was settled up to the full and complete satisfaction, not only of my said partner, but of all other persons, and without the loss of one cent to any one. In the settlement of this business and sale of property a deficiency existed of a few hundred dollars, which I subsequently paid; and in support of the statement here made, as well as in evidence of the confidence in which I am held to-day by my old friends and acquaintances in Pennsylvania, I herewith submit a dispatch, received by me on the 27th inst., from said law partner:

BUTLER, PA., May 27, 1873.

To John H. Mitchell, United States Senator: No man in Pennsylvania ever lost a cent by you. Every cent was paid in full. You have and deserve the confidence and good will of every man who knows you. Fear nothing from this State. Your friends will not desert you while they know the whole truth of the case. Your record here is all right. Call on me in any way you think proper.

JOHN M. THOMPSON.

Without conceding that it is the right of any man to demand that I should lay my domestic affairs before the world, I simply state that misfortune in respect to these relations was the sole cause of my course in leaving my native State; and I aver that I was and am justified not only in my own mind in the course I pursued, but also, so far as I am aware, in the opinion of all candid persons well acquainted with the facts. As an evidence of the truth of what I say, and as a further vindication of my character for integrity in relation to the matters charged, I herewith submit a telegram from Hon. Samuel A. Purviance, of Pittsburg, Pa., for several years member of Congress from that State, and at present a member of the Constitutional Convention now in session in Philadelphia, a gentleman who has known me intimately from childhood and is familiar with my whole history in Pennsylvania, and whose integrity will not be questioned by any man who knows him:

PHILADELPHIA, PA., May 27, 1873.

To John H. Mitchell. In leaving Pennsylvania it was not alleged, I believe, that you were indebted to any one but your Pennsylvania law partner, Col. John M. Thompson, and I know the fact from Col. Thompson himself that you do not owe him anything; and further, that your relations with him continue to be of a most harmonious character. I believe that no man in Pennsylvania ever lost a dollar in consequence of your leaving the State. The cause of your leaving the State was well understood to be to get rid of trouble of an entirely domestic nature.

SAMUEL A. PURVIANCE.

I also herewith submit the following from a letter addressed to me at Washington City, dated at Pittsburgh, Pa., April 1, 1873, and written by Hon. Samuel A. Purviance:

If you should need any certificates of your standing here when you left Butler, you can have them, as your course was universally justified by every one.

Yours truly,

SAMUEL A. PURVIANCE.

Owing solely to domestic troubles, seeking at that time only obscurity, and hoping that I might be forever separated from some of the memories of the past, but having committed no wrong act to be concealed, neither contemplating the commission of any, I in my then perturbed state of mind decided to be known and called thereafter by my mother's maiden name—Mitchell—which was my middle name by baptism. This I frankly concede was an indiscreet, ill-advised and injudicious act, a great blunder, a foolish mistake. I offer for it no excuse save my inexperience in the world, and a great desire to separate myself, as far as possible, from a past that was, and is, inexpressibly painful. It was a violation of the conventionalities of life, for which I would gladly atone by a life's labor. It is not, however, in contravention of any public law. The act at once became irretrievable. I leave it to others to judge whether, thus yielding to the misdirection of a perturbed mind in days of dejection and sorrow, is a sin that years of honorable effort in the walks of daily life cannot atone.

Herewith I print a dispatch from Winfield S Purviance, Esq., a member of the Pittsburg Bar at present, formerly a resident of Butler, Pa., a gentleman whose integrity cannot be questioned. He has known me from boyhood, and is familiar with my history and present reputation in Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURG, PA., May 27, 1873.

To Hon. John H. Mitchell, Portland, Oregon: Your character before you left Pennsylvania was unexceptionable, and I never yet heard it doubted, but that you were perfectly justified in leaving as you did. The allegation of absconding with money is and was false.

W. S. PURVIANCE.

I also herewith present a dispatch sent me by Hon. Simon Cameron, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, who has full knowledge of my history in that State, and of my standing there now:

HARRISBURG, PA., May 27, 1873.

To Hon. John H. Mitchell, U. S. Senator, Portland, Oregon: When you left Pennsylvania your reputation was as good as any public man's in your county. All who knew you speak now in high terms of your integrity and purity of character, and feel honored by your election to the Senate—in all of which I join.

SIMON CAMERON.

I was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, June 22, 1835; I was educated at Witherspoon Institute, Pa.; studied law with the law firm of Purviance & Thompson, composed of Hon Samuel A. Purviance and Col. John M. Thompson, whose testimonials are herewith submitted.

In conclusion, I submit upon considerations, not of sympathy, but of simple justice, whether in the light of the statement and evidence here presented, and of my deportment among you for the past thirteen years, I am entitled to your future confidence and respect, or deserve your condemnation. I stand to day strong in the full consciousness that in reference to the matters alleged I have been actuated by no evil intentions; and feeling and knowing that I have presented these matters in all truthfulness, with your judgment I shall remain content. Respectfully,

JOHN H. MITCHELL.

CITY.

UNCLE CHARLEY MCKAY.—Some of the friends of the late Charles McKay are anxious to learn the cause of his death. From his relatives we learn the following account of the death of this old pioneer. About one week ago he returned from San Francisco, where he had suddenly been [illegible] to attend a law suit in a case for Sam [illegible], Esq. He was in good health and spirits on his arrival in Portland, where he remained a few days, and then returned to his home, near [illegible], Washington county. After his arrival home, he remarked to his wife that he had come back to die and be buried with his children and grandchildren. The day before his death he did a hard day's work, and never seemed in better health. In the evening he was taken suddenly ill and died before morning with inflammation of the [illegible]. He leaves a large family of children and grandchildren and a loving wife to mourn his loss. Charles McKay was a Scotchman by birth, and came with his family in 1840 across the Rocky Mountains, which was among the first white immigration to this country. He was a member of the Hudson Bay Company for many years. He was a man possessed of many friends, but, like all men, he had his faults. There are very few men in Oregon who will be missed more from the walks of life than "Uncle Charley," as he was familiarly called.

SOLD AND PURCHASED.—Last Friday a meeting was held at Vancouver by the stockholders and officers of the Vancouver Steamboat Company, in which it was determined to abandon the route between that place and Portland and to disincorporate the existing Company. It was further [illegible] by the Company to sell the steamer [illegible], as an offer to purchase the same had been made by Mr. Goldsmith, President of the Willamette River Transportation Company. The [illegible] papers were at once made out, and the steamer was transferred. This action entirely [illegible] the Vancouver Steamboat Company. Hereafter no boat will ply regularly between Portland and Vancouver, except the steamer [illegible] now runs daily to the Cascades. It is the intention of the Company purchasing the Vancouver to place that boat on the upper Willamette to run in connection with the Gov. Grover. Arrangements to that effect have been made by the Company, and the Vancouver will probably start up the river on Thursday of the present week. Being of light draught, she will ascend to the highest navigable point on the river, proceeding as far up as [illegible] City whenever the stage [illegible] will admit. The Company, we are informed, supposed the Grover would be sufficient to accommodate the trade until the harvest [illegible], but they find the Grover is not sufficient [illegible] for the trade as it now is. She [illegible] loaded to the guards every trip, and there is still [illegible] awaiting transportation by this [illegible]. Hence this purchase. With the new [illegible] to be finished for the fall trade, and those it now has on the river, the Company hope to be fully prepared for the business of the freighting [illegible].

PASSENGERS COMING.—The steamer Ajax, [illegible] last Saturday morning from San Francisco for Portland, brings the following passengers: Col W B Johnston and wife, Miss Babcock, R B Knapp and family, John Wilson, Rev D D [illegible] and wife, G Siveranse, Rev R W Wilson, Osgood Putnam, O R McNulty, Mrs W L [illegible], Mrs L Samuel, Rev M G Mann, Mrs A S Haygood, Miss Winter, L Kohn, Geo Ba[illegible], L [illegible], Jas Keyes, J W [illegible], J Donnavan, H C McGee, H W McGee, S O John[illegible] and family, J A Draper, J Black[illegible], J A Heilstiy, [illegible], J C Vanney, [illegible], Jas Barton, R W Moore, Miss L Geary, Mrs S M Coxe, H H Selfridge and family, Mrs E [illegible], M Gray, B F Goodwin and wife, Mrs W F Parker, Miss R P [illegible], Mrs L Clark, Miss E [illegible], Mrs S B Sykes, J Harley, C M Goddold, [illegible] and wife, Miss Ogle, E Wells and wife, [illegible] and family.

SUIT FOR PARTITION.—A few days ago the [illegible] was made in the papers to the effect that a suit was [illegible] in the United States Circuit Court by J. M. Selby and Geo. Towne, against the South Portland Real Estate Association, for the recovery of landed interests in the [illegible] Addition. [illegible], we are requested to state that the [illegible] for the recovery of which proceedings [illegible] instituted, is five-twelfths of the northwest [illegible] of the [illegible] land claim of Thos. and [illegible] Ann Thos; and also for a five twelfths interest in block 49, in Caruthers' Addition. The suit [illegible] a partition of the above property, and [illegible] up no new or adverse claim. We are informed that the interest sued for will probably not exceed the sum of $500. This property is a part of the Caruthers estate.

BOY BITTEN.—A little son of Mr. Batt, aged [illegible], was severely bitten yesterday [illegible] the corner of Sixth and Washington [illegible], by a small bull dog. The boy was proceeding along the sidewalk, when the animal [illegible] sprang out without any provocation and seized the child by the calf of the leg, [illegible] not quit its hold until the flesh was severely lacerated. Screams from the little fellow [illegible] assistance, when the dog ran away. The [illegible] was conveyed to a house hard by and the [illegible] dressed. Since the occurrence, the dog [illegible] seen, the animal, doubtless, concluding, with canine sagacity, that prudence is the better part of valor, as the justly indignant [illegible] has been on the search with a pistol.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.—Rev. Mr. Eliot, [illegible] of the Portland Unitarian Church, has accepted the invitation to deliver the Annual Address before the Philosophian Literary Society of [illegible] College, Monmouth. Their entertainment is to be upon the 12th inst. Mr. Eliot is a [illegible] original thinker, and with his classical and [illegible] acquirements will, without doubt, do [illegible] to himself and the occasion. The Commencement exercises of the Monmouth College [illegible] on the 9th inst. This institution of [illegible] will send forth the present year seven graduates.

[illegible] Mr. C. L. Sheppard, residing on [illegible], [illegible] on our table Saturday, a [illegible] which had been taken from [illegible] was pulled up by the roots [illegible] the stalks [illegible] feet. The bunch was taken [illegible] of the grain, the average height of [illegible] short of seven feet. Last fall the [illegible] sowed in oats for pasturage and the [illegible] fully mixed. It was closely pastured [illegible], and will now produce, in rye [illegible] bushels.

NUMBER OF ARRESTS.—One hundred and [illegible] arrests have been made by the police during the month of May, classified as follows: Drunk and disorderly, 76, larceny, 6, assault and battery, 24; peddling without a license, 1; [illegible] language, 4; vagrants, 5; receiving stolen goods, 2, committing a nuisance, 1, cruelty to animals, 1; indecent conduct, 1, making [illegible] with intent to extort money, 1; carrying a concealed weapon, 1, crazy, 1.

CONTRACT TO BE LET.—The Willamette River Transportation Company advertises for bids for the construction of a steamboat hull and cabin, which is designed to ply on the Upper Wallamet in connection with the Gov. Grover and Vancouver. Specifications and plans for the new [illegible] can be seen at the office of the President of the Company, B. Goldsmith.

PROF. FOWLER'S LECTURE.—Prof. Fowler delivered a lecture at Masonic Hall last evening, to a [illegible] audience, on the subject of the "Immortality of the Soul." His next lecture will be delivered at the hall, on the subject of "Intellect, [illegible] and Culture."

MEETING BY "MANY REPUBLICANS."

Last week the announcement was made that a meeting of the Republicans of the city would be held on Saturday evening, at the Washington Guard Armory, the object of which was "to organize for the approaching city election." The call was signed "Many Republicans." Pursuant to the order issued by this anonymous personage, a meeting was held last Saturday evening at the Armory. To all intents and purposes the meeting was a "decided success," so far as regards numbers and the objects attained. Without exaggeration, or a desire to misrepresent the facts, we will state that the number present on the occasion would not exceed 200. Of this number a large per centage were boys and youths who, having nothing particular to do, and nowhere to go, on Saturday evening, assembled at the Armory, attracted by the music and impelled by an idle curiosity. With equal truth it can be stated that many were present who came not to participate, but as mere spectators. Among the small assemblage were to be seen several familiar countenances, the possessors of which were known to harbor no sympathy with the so called Republican movement. Of the small number that remained of the crowd, which, by the way, constituted but a small proportion of the slim attendance, were observed the usual attaches of the Custom House—the weighers and gaugers, the clerks, the deputies, the political sinecures, and all that kind—to the number of say,—well, twice as many as there is any need for in the Custom House establishment—the whole force of Democrats and bolters who have recently been appointed to Federal offices, besides a few other persons who have long been identified with the doings of the "ring." Under the existing circumstances, the fact that the meeting was announced through the public press for several days in advance, the strenuous efforts made by the little clique of the Custom House to get out a crowd, a band having been engaged to lend additional attractions—the attendance was anything but flattering to the pride of the clique, or encouraging to the cause for the promotion of which the call had been issued. More especially humiliating did this failure to draw out even a reasonable proportion of the tax paying citizens of Portland, appear from the fact that the band, which usually discourses music every Saturday evening at the Central Market was "off," leaving an open field, so to speak, that there might be no counter attraction at that place to diminish the prospect of a large attendance at Armory Hall. The same effort to get up a meeting upon a matter in which the Republicans of the city feel any interest would have resulted in an audience of 800 to 1,000 people. That is about the average audience at Republican meetings in this city. The scant 200—boys included—looked very slim.

It was about 8 o'clock when the band, engaged for the occasion, struck up the music in front of the place of rendezvous, denoting that the hour for "solemn conclave" had arrived. As a matter of course these animated strains attracted much attention, and were the means of collecting quite a crowd. Several lively airs were played when the band entered the hall, followed by a number from the sidewalk, the majority of those outside going away. By a common impulse all in the room gathered in a little knot at the southern end of the building, near which were placed a table and chair. For some reason, as yet unexplained, the Committee of Arrangements, to whom had been intrusted this important meeting of "Many Republicans," had failed to provide seats, so that all the crowd but about twenty were compelled to stand.

Whispered consultations were held among the corporal's squad who were engaged to "put the whole thing up," as to the most advisable mode of procedure. Everything didn't look particularly "blooming," nor were the surroundings of a very auspicious character; but the clique were in for their respective portions of the programme, and they had to dull if the collar didn't happen to fit. An individual up town, who, we believe, was elected Justice of the Peace or something of that sort, elected himself Chief of the "Many Republicans" who issued the call, advanced to the table and called the motley assemblage to order. A degree of quiet was secured by loud and repeated raps, so the gentleman's voice could be indistinctly heard. The ad interim Chairman then stated that the election of a permanent President would be eminently in order. He placed in nomination the name of H. W. Davis. That gentleman was unanimously proclaimed presiding officer, seven persons voting in the affirmative and none in the negative. Mr. Davis took the chair, and after stating in a few lucid remarks the object of the meeting, said it was necessary that a Secretary should be chosen. Col. Briggs, late of Washington Territory, but at present—we are truly gratified to state—connected with the Portland Custom House, was placed in nomination and triumphantly elected. This portion of the programme having been carried out, the Secretary was requested to read the call, which had been published last week in the Bulletin. The Secretary having complied, Bro. Caples said: "Will you be so kind, Mr. Secretary, as to state how many signatures are appended to that call?" After counting for a few minutes Mr. Briggs said there were more than six hundred. We will state, parenthetically, that no one called for the reading of the names. Some people, naturally skeptical, say that six hundred is a fish story by at least five hundred. Some confusion prevailed here, but soon the old cry of "Caples, Caples," was commenced by a bevy of fellows he had "put up" for that purpose, and that loquacious gentleman who, be it said to his eternal credit, is never wanting on such occasions, nor ever waits to see whether the call will become general, came forward. He spoke for about three quarters of an hour, in which were peddled out the silliest, most shallow, variest bosh and political clap trap that have yet been inflicted on an intelligent audience, even by Caples. After a long and demagogical harangue, most of the crowd having left in disgust, he read a series of resolutions concerning the employment of Chinamen, which contained about all the common sense shown in the meeting. After reading that document, the speaker moved its adoption, which prevailed. Brother Caples quietly subsided for the remainder of the evening. Mr. M. F. Mulkey, City Attorney, at this juncture was developed from the midst of a little coterie of thimble riggers in a corner. He proceeded to read a resolution, the substance of which was instructing the Ward Committees to hold meetings in each ward on next Saturday evening, and also to hold a convention on the Monday following for the purpose of placing in nomination a Republican ticket. Although not more than a baker's dozen voted for the resolution, it was declared "passed" by the Chairman. It was next moved that the meeting adjourn until Tuesday evening, when the crowd dispersed. The motion has not yet been put. This meeting of "Many Republicans" was a very flattering affair, its deliberations were characterized by harmony and dignity to an alarming degree, and by results highly satisfactory—to those who think it is wrong. It must have been excessively mortifying to the members of the clique.

TROUBLE AT TILLAMOOK.

A gentleman of this city is in receipt of a letter from W. T. Griffin, who resides on the North Yamhill, in relation to a recent difficulty that took place at Tillamook. The letter says:

By request of Mr. Day, Constable of Bay precinct, Tillamook county, I write to let you know about a little affair that took place there, in which a man named Squires was the principal actor. Those cattle, seven head, and one horse, that you had attached, belonged to Squires. After the attachment was placed in the hands of one Talmadge, Squires told Day that one of the band was his work ox, and he would like to get him back to work. Day told him he could have the animal he demanded, and also told the man Talmadge to let Squires take him. On the 27th of May Squires and his son came to the house of Talmadge to get the steer. After catching the animal, in an unguarded moment Squires pinioned the arms of Talmadge by going behind him and throwing his arms round him, at the same time exclaiming to his son: "Now is the time," when the boy drew a pistol, and placing the muzzle to the head of Talmadge, Squires told him if he would keep still he would not hurt him, otherwise he would shoot him. Then they procured a scow, put all the cattle aboard, tied Talmadge, then went to the house and got the wife of Talmadge, put them both on the scow (keeping Talmadge tied all the time) took them and the cattle off up the river some seven miles, and landed him and his wife in the woods and went on with the cattle.

It took Talmadge and his wife one day and two nights to reach home, for it was in the night that Squires landed them in the woods. They could not get back without a boat, so they had to build a raft. Talmadge and Day reached here this morning (May 30th) about 3 o'clock having traveled all night. If you see Squires down there have him arrested as Constable Day is on his track.

Since the event, nothing has been seen of Squires, and it is thought he must be in this city now, or in the immediate vicinity.

P. S. Since the above was in print, we learn that Squires and his sons have been arrested in Yamhill, and will be held to answer for their bold and unwarrantable proceedings in the affair.

THE CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

In consequence of an exchange of pulpits, the Pastor, Rev J. D. Eaton, preached at the First Baptist Church yesterday morning. Last evening he occupied his own pulpit, and delivered a sermon on the subject of "Deaconesses," taken from the following passage of Scripture:

> "I commend unto you Phebe, our sister, which is a servant of the Church which is at Cenchrea.—Romans, xvi, 1."

The cry in reference to our own State is, "We must develop her resources." The net has dragged her rivers for fish, the ax and saw have cut some timber along the skirts of her forests, the sickle has reaped some grain from her plains but much of their work has been done superficially and wastefully. We point to the precious metals shut up within her rocks, and ask, "Who will come with drill, pick and quartz mill, and set at liberty the imprisoned gold, silver and iron?" Mountain, plain, swamp, river and seashore,—all are storehouses of wealth which only need the persuasion of wisdom and energy to open to us. We welcome every one who comes with a proposal to unlock these vaults and make the contents available. If it is a locomotive that he brings, or a new furnace, or a steam plow, no matter, so that it does the work.

Some of the forces of the Church have been slumbering, but we will not tell them to go back to rest when they come forward to help us at this hour. If our tools have been clumsily contrived before, we will not refuse to exchange them for more effective implements. In short, we will welcome all agencies which promise to "develop the resources" of the Church. One of these agencies, which was formerly in use, has come to light again in the proposal recently made to elect one or more deaconesses to assist in the enterprises of this Church.

1. What, in brief, is the proof that the order of the deaconesses existed in the early Church? We turn first to the Scriptures. The plainest intimation is contained in the text quoted. Noticing that the word translated "servant" is the same as is rendered "deacon" in other passages, e. g. "The deacons must be grave," we are at liberty to read, "I commend unto to you Phebe, our Sister who is a deaconess of the Church which is at Cenchrea."

In 1 Tim., 3:11, also we have a probable reference to deaconesses: "Even so must (not "their wives," but) the women be grave, not slanderers," etc. There is nothing in the sentence to express possession.

How were these passages understood by the early writers. Some of them speak of deaconesses as a matter of course. Pliny, also, in his letter to Trajan, says he was obliged to put to the torture "certain maid-servants who are called deaconesses." Certain Church councils in the fifth and sixth centuries deprived ordained deaconesses of certain rights of the clergy. The Apostolic Constitutions prescribed a form of prayer to be offered at the ordination of these female officers.

The office was not to be entangled with domestic cares, and the incumbents were to be chosen from "among the virgins or at least the widows." The recorded ages varied from under 20 years to over three score. The duties enjoined upon the officers had reference to their sex and the peculiar condition of women in the East. They were to instruct the women, to prepare them for baptism, and be present at the administration of the rite. The offices of consolation had a large place. We find a command to ordain "one who is faithful and holy for the ministrations to the women. For sometimes thou canst not send a deacon, who is a man, to the women in certain houses on account of the unbelievers. Thou shalt therefore send a woman, a deaconess, on account of the imaginations of the bad."

After a time the order began to decline, having for a reason the extreme ecclesiasticism of the day, which was moved with a jealousy of the prerogatives and power of women in the church. The last traces of the order we find at the close of the twelfth century.

2. Have these matters any practical value for us of to-day? Will they help us to solve the problems that crowd upon us; Ought we to have deaconesses? These are fair questions, but not all men are agreed in answering them; but mark a few points.

First,—Woman has a deal more of native sagacity than man. While man generally toils to his conclusions by a labored logic and has to have a hard tussle with the barriers in the way before he can proceed further, woman by the wings of her intuitions flies around obstacles and across lots, and reaches a result long before the other gets within sight of it. See woman in the school, the family, benevolent institutions.

Secondly—There is work to be done in the church which only woman can do. Every committee for the examination of candidates for admission to the church ought to have one or more lady members. How can a sensitive young girl—how can a woman even—tell to a man all that is in her heart? Either might reveal her experience to a loved father; but how can you and I have it from her, my gentlemen friends? No! we must send a woman's heart to unlock a woman's heart; yes, a boy's heart too, sometimes. There are offices beside the sick bed which only a woman can perform. Man's voice and man's touch are too harsh for sick nerves. During the late war many a Mrs. Bickerdyke became "Mother Bickerdyke" to rough soldiers without a home.

Thirdly—The necessity of putting women into positions of responsibility is keenly felt in the case of many weak churches throughout the country. Where there are only thirty-five or forty members in all, and two thirds of these are capable women, how ridiculous to entrust all public duties to the inefficient male minority!

Fourthly—If there is a special work to be done and woman has a special fitness for it, we ought to recognize the fact by entrusting her with a special commission to do it, and bid her God speed. Efficiency demands organization, and organization implies officers. "Every man for himself,"—Colonel, Captain and private all in one—may do for fighting Indians in the "lava bed," but it is death to unity and enthusiasm in the march of the church of Christ.

Lastly—We may be helped by studying the example of others. The earliest Congregational Churches in England in the sixteenth century chose deaconesses to office. Experiments in this direction are now being tried in England, France and Germany. "Religious sisterhoods" in this country are doing a similar work. The Romish "Sisters of Charity" may teach us something. But we need not put our ladies into a uniform of starched caps and black gowns. We do not want them to desert our firesides and take the vail. We want them to minister as priestesses at those firesides, and to bless other hearths upon which the fire has gone out by reason of perplexities and contentions.

On the one side lies the work, on the other side stands the woman, ready, willing, capable. Shall we help the woman to the work? I believe that every converted person, white or black, bond or free, male or female, has a right to serve God and man in whatever way the Author of being has made it possible. What so often makes the [illegible] more successful than the prayer [illegible]? It may be because woman is the life of the [illegible], and yet, when we escort her to the prayer meeting, we set her over against the men and say, "now do you keep still this evening, for we propose to do all the talking and praying!"

Shall she who was last at the cross and first at the sepulcher, be forbidden to tell us what she has witnessed? No! we will sit at the feet of the Marys who have sat at the feet of Jesus. And if the Phebes, the Annas, or the Deborahs have anything wise to say, or anything wise to do, we will listen and learn, or will cry, "All hail!" and "Well done!"

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. A. R. Medbury, of this Church, occupied the pulpit at the Congregational Church yesterday forenoon. He preached at the above Church in the evening from the text:

> "Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of the disciples whom Jesus loved." St John 13 23.

This scene is easily recognized as one of the notable occurrences of the last Passover and the first Lord's Supper.

Not merely the fact which is here noted, but the particular time in the Feast thus marked gives it a peculiar interest. It was when every disciple, so far as each could tell, was accused by the Lord with the intention of treachery, at a time when by the announcement of the presence of the betrayer, the worst suspicions of the disciples had been aroused, and set to working upon themselves and upon each other, in those very moments "there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of the disciples whom Jesus loved," and this one appears not to have been so greatly troubled by the announcement as the others, for he seems not to have changed his position but still reclined leaning on the bosom of his Lord. Few things could be more beautiful or impressive than this sweet, unsuspecting trust of the Apostle John in such an hour, and the occurrence is well calculated to exhibit in their true light the great blessings attending upon intimacy with Jesus and full confidence in Him.

Intimacy and trust are vital elements in all real friendship. But intimacy must be pure to bring a permanent blessing. Confidence must rest upon mutual and holy love, or it has little value. Here is where trust in Christ rests. "He hath loved us and given himself for us," and now "We love Him because he first loved us." There is no other friendship, no other blessing so sweet as those born of a loving consciousness that Jesus loves us. Fear is a tormenter to which few if any in this world are strangers.

Abiding trust in Jesus is a deliverer from all the torment of fear. Distrust and dread rested upon nearly all hearts when the Lord told the disciples that a betrayer was in their midst. Only John appears but little troubled, and why does he repose in a sweet confidence when others, even the boldest of them, appear to shrink back as if terror-stricken. Because he is blessed with a consciousness of Christ's love, which is answered from His own heart by love reciprocal, and this love has vitalized his trust. Out of it has arisen the assurance that whoever betrays the Lord, "The disciple whom Jesus loves" cannot do it. "Fear hath torment," but perfect love (has) cast out John's fear.

One who is leaning upon Christ in the confidence of mutual love is in a condition to invite confidence in himself. Disciples who at other times had been free to ask Jesus many questions, and sometimes very curious ones—those who had even ventured to criticise things that had passed under his approval—dared not speak to him when he began to tell about the betrayer. Even Peter with all his natural boldness,—the disciple who upon almost all occasions was almost the first to say something,—this one even was afraid to speak to Jesus now. But what did Peter do? He made a sign to John, whose consciousness of love had cast out fear. And thus Peter asked John to ask Jesus who it was that should betray him. Because John was trusting Jesus with confidence undisturbed, Peter could trust John to do a thing which he dared not trust himself to do.

This reveals to us volumes of human history in which are written the deeds of many a Peter and John in the great emergencies of life—history which is but too little read and too slightly remembered.

When men are in great trouble, and they realize the need of some Divine support, whose prayers and sympathies do they most earnestly seek? Does the aid of the formalist avail anything now? Is the comfort of unbelief of any value, when the soul is actually crushed with the weight of a great emergency or disappointment? Nay, then, the man who would have the comfort of prayer, will find one, if he can, who can really pray—one whose personal nearness to Christ gives him constant access to the great source of grace in prayer, and to such an one will he unburden his soul. Is it a blessing to be trusted? then let us not forget that the man who most lovingly trusts in Jesus, is the man who can be most implicitly trusted in the great extremes of life. It is by this habit of trust that even the avowed unbeliever often pays the highest tribute to the truth of Christianity. It is not an unusual thing to hear of those who have persistently rejected Christ all their lives, in the hour of danger or death most anxiously seeking the prayers of those whose piety they could never doubt, even though at other times they may have ridiculed it.

Thus it is that personal nearness to Christ fills one's own heart and life with comfort and joy, and at the same time prepares one to become the greatest blessing to another. Intimacy with Jesus is bliss. Loving confidence in Christ is power.

THE SYNAGOGUES.

Yesterday was the Hebrew Feast of Weeks or Pentacost, a day celebrated in commemoration of the delivery of the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai to the children of Israel. Appropriate services were held in the Synagogues Ahavi Sholum and Beth Israel, and the attendance was unusually large. In the latter, the rite of confirmation was administered to eighteen children. The Synagogue was handsomely decorated with evergreens and flowers, and the legend "Glory to God," worked in evergreens, hung before the Ark. The ceremonies of confirmation followed the usual morning services, and were of a very imposing and religious character. The following girls and boys having attained the age of thirteen years, were candidates for the sacred rite, and entered the Synagogue in procession: Henrietta Lyon, Celia Friendly, Minna Schloss, Rosa Durkheimer, Eva Meyer, Sophia Wormser, Celia Kohn, Helena Blumauer, Ella Bach, Bertha Baum, Jennie Wertheimer, Julius Ach, Samuel Jacobi, Samuel Darkheimer, Felix Kohn, Isaac Fleischner, Emanuel Kohn, Goodman Baum. The girls were attired in white dresses, and the boys in black, each carrying a bouquet. Arriving in front of the pulpit, the Rev. M. May addressed the children in an impressive and feeling manner, after which Miss Henrietta Lyon ascended the pulpit before the Ark, and in a clear voice offered, on behalf of herself and all her companions, a very fervent opening prayer, after which the Reverend minister questioned the children on the cardinal doctrines of the Hebrew faith, to which the children responded, reciting the articles of faith and following with the solemn vow promising forever to adhere to the faith which they here professed. The Reverend minister then again addressed them in regard to their duties toward their parents and fellow-men. These remarks were very feeling and brought tears to many Hebrew and Christian eyes. Miss Minna Schloss then ascended the pulpit and asked permission for herself and companions to offer the Sacrifice of the First Cereals, a ceremony performed at this feast in the temple at Jerusalem. This consisted in the children passing by the Ark in procession, bowing and strewing flowers. This was followed by a prayer by Miss Celia Friendly. Then the Rev. Mr. May delivered a sermon addressed to the congregation, in which he particularly admonished the parents in regard to their duties towards their children, asserting that much of the religion and morals of their children depended upon home culture. Julius Ach then offered the closing prayer, which was followed by a benediction from the minister. Thus were a number of Hebrew children admitted to the Covenant of Abraham, and made responsible to their God for their religious conduct.

The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

Mr. John Kennedy, formerly of the Philadelphia Shoe Store, is now at the San Francisco Shoe Store with Fleischner & Crone, where he will be pleased to wait upon his friends and customers, with one of the largest and finest stocks of boots and shoes on the coast. He will also continue to take measures for ladies' custom-made shoes.

DRESS WELL.—The young man who desires his "make-up" complete should always select the place where the articles desired can be obtained. For a neat fitting suit, made of the very finest materials, the public is directed to the house of Fishel & Roberts, an establishment which ranks with the leading houses on the coast. The stock is complete, the attention paid to customers, and the promptness with which orders are filled, at once commends this house to all.

"TRIED AND TRUE."—What words of trust and confidence are these. It is what many a poor sufferer can say of Helmbold's Buchu. It is the only reliable medicine of those terrible diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Beware of counterfeits. The genuine has the private proprietary stamp of H. T. Helmbold. TO THE TAX-PAYERS OF THE CITY OF PORTLAND.

The Portland Water Company take this method of defining their position on the purchase of their works by the city of Portland:

On the 25th day of April, 1872, this company received a communication from Messrs. W. S. Ladd, J. B. Congle, C. H. Lewis and S. G. Reed, sub committee on water supply, appointed by the Mayor, asking the question:

> "Will you dispose of your works to the city of Portland? and if so, you will state price, terms, etc."

Our answer was, we would sell, and the price, three hundred thousand dollars, to be paid as specified.

Again, the Committee on Fire and Water called on us at our office, saying they came in accordance with a resolution passed by the Common Council, on the 5th of February, to confer with us as to the purchase of our works by the city, to ascertain the price, and report to the Council at their earliest convenience. This company named the same price, viz. $300,000, that had been named to the former committee, two hundred and forty thousand dollars coin, and the city to assume the payment of sixty thousand dollars currency bonds, bearing seven per cent. interest, payable in July, 1880.

The committee made their report to the Common Council on the evening of February 18, 1873, from which report we copy the latter portion, viz:

> We have been permitted to examine the income of the Water Company for the years 1870, 1871 and 1872, from rents of water, and from them we learn that the receipts would pay the interest on the bonds, the cost of operating the works, and have a considerable surplus, while the rents could be lowered one-fourth the present rates, and still pay rents sufficient to pay interest and cost of operating; thus giving to our citizens cheaper water, which is a matter greatly to be desired.
>
> The increase of population in the city will increase the rents, and cheaper rates will increase the takers, without corresponding increase in the cost of operating; and in the no distant future your Committee believe that the rates can be reduced to one-half the present rates, and still leave a sufficient revenue to pay interest on the bonds and cost of operating, while a small sum can be annually accumulating to form a sinking fund for the redemption of the bonds.
>
> Under the provisions of our charter nothing can be done in the way of incurring an indebtedness sufficient to purchase or build Water Works by the city until the proposition is submitted to the people at a general election, and by them approved.
>
> Your Committee therefore recommend that the proposition of the Portland Water Company for the sale of their Works, rights, &c., &c., be submitted to the people at the coming June election, as provided by charter, for their approval or rejection.
>
> All of which is respectfully submitted
>
> (Signed) J. B. CONGLE,
> J. C. MORELAND,
> Committee on Fire and Water.

The Portland Water Company would respectfully state to the tax payers the fact, that they have not urged the city to purchase our works. We have simply answered in good faith communications from committees appointed by the Mayor and Common Council of this city, as we supposed in good faith on the part of the city, and as a continuance of our willingness to give to the tax payers and the public any information they may desire, in order that they may vote intelligently at the coming June election for or against the purchase of our works by the city, we submit the following abstract from our books for two years, with the probable rates for one year.

Rates for 1874, $50,000 25 per cent. less than present rates			12,500 00
Surplus after reduction of rates			[illegible],520 00

The city can run the works, reduce the rates 25 per cent., and leave a balance in favor of the city of six thousand, five hundred and twenty dollars; or, in other words, [illegible] that now pay $2 per month, can be supplied for $1 50 per month, and others in proportion; and still the city will receive a revenue without taxing the people for a water supply.

Any further information desired in relation to the Company's works will be readily given on application at their office.

Respectfully,
THE PORTLAND WATER COMPANY.
H. D. GREEN, President.

The man of enterprise creates; the weak imitator tries to copy him. Does any sensible man suppose that the legions of "Buchus," so-called, that infest the drug stores, possess the real merit of Dr. Helmbold's Genuine Extract? Any sufferer from Kidney Complaint, Dropsy, Diabetes, or other urinary disease, in male or female, will detect the difference at once by the results. Helmbold's cures, the others fail. The genuine bears Dr. Helmbold's signature. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent.

It is often remarked by strangers visiting our State that we show a larger proportion of good horses than any other State in the Union. This, we tell them, is owing to two principal reasons. In the first place, we breed the very best stock; and in the second place, our people use Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, which in our judgment are of incalculable advantage.

THE ATMOSPHERE OF LOVE is a pure, sweet breath. This desideratum is one of the results of using Sozodont, which not only invigorates and preserves the teeth, but renders the mouth as fragrant as a rose. 38

The World is Full of Beauty.

BY GERALD MASSEY.

There lives a voice within me, a guest angel of my heart,
And its sweet lispings win me till the tears a trembling start
Up evermore it springeth, like some magic melody,
And evermore it singeth this sweet song of songs to me
This world is full of beauty, as other worlds above;
And, if we did our duty it might be full of love

If faith and hope and kindness passed, as coin, 'twixt heart and heart
How through the eye's tear blindness should the sudden soul upstart
The dreary, dim and desolate should wear a sunny bloom
And love should spring from buried hate like flowers from winter's tomb
This world is full of beauty as other worlds above;
And if we did our duty it might be full of love

With truth our uttered language, angels might talk with men
And God-illumined, earth should see the golden age again,
The burthened heart should soar by mirth, like morn's young prophet lark,
And misery's last tear wept on earth quench hell's last cunning spark
This world is full of beauty, as other worlds above
And if we did our duty, it might be full of love

The leaf tongues of the forest, and the flower-lips of the sod,
The happy birds that hymn their raptures in the ear of God,
The summer wind that bringeth music over land and sea
Have each a voice that singeth this sweet song of songs to me —
This world is full of beauty, as other worlds above.
And, if we did our duty, it might be full of love.

Shakespeare's Genius Comparatively Viewed

To say that he was the greatest man that ever lived is to provoke a useless controversy and comparison that leads to nothing between Shakespeare and Cæsar, Shakspeare and Cromwell, to say that he was the greatest intellect that ever lived is to bring the shades of Aristotle, and Plato, and Bacon, and Newton, and all your other systematic thinkers grumbling about us with demands for a definition of intellect, which we are by no means in a position to give; nay, finally, to say that he is the greatest poet that the world has produced (a thing which he would certainly were we provoked to it) would be unnecessarily to hurt the feelings of Homer, and Sophocles, and Dante, and Milton. What we will say, then, and what we will challenge the world to gainsay, is that he was the greatest expressor that ever lived. This is glory enough, and it leaves the other questions open. Other men may have led, on the whole, greater and more impressive lives then he; other men, acting on their fellows through the same medium of speech that he used, may have expended a greater power of thought and achieved a greater intellectual effect in one consistent direction; other men, too, (though this is very questionable,) may have contrived to issue the matter which they did address to the world in more compact and perfect artistic shapes; but no man that ever lived said such splendid extempore things on all subjects universally; no man that ever lived had the faculty of pouring out on all occasions such a flood of the richest and deepest language. He may have had rivals in the art of imagining situations; he had no rival in the power of sending a gush of appropriate intellectual effusion over the image and body of a situation once conceived. From the jeweled ring on an alderman's finger to the most mountainous thought or deed of man or demon nothing suggested itself that his speech could not envelop and enfold with ease. That excessive fluency which astonished Ben Johnson when he listened to Shakspeare in person astonishes the world. Yet, abundance, ease, redundance, a plenitude of word, sound, and imagery which, were the intellect at work only a little less magnificent, would sometimes end in sheer balderdash and bombast, are characteristics of Shakpeare's style. Nothing is suppressed, nothing omitted, nothing canceled. On and on the poets flows; words, thoughts, and fancies crowding him as fast as he can write, all related to the matter on hand, and poured forth together, to rise and fall on the waves of an established cadence. Such lightness and ease in the manner, and such prodigous wealth and depth in the matter, are combined in no other writer.

How the matter was first accumulated, what proportion of it was acquired capital of efforts, and what proportion of it welled up in the poet's mind during and in virtue of the very act of speech, it is impossible to say; but this, at least, may be affirmed without fear of contradiction, that there never was a mind in the world from which, when it was pricked by any occasion whatever, there poured forth on the instant such a stream of precious substance intellectually related to it. By his powers of expression, in fact, Shakspeare has beggared all his posterity, and left mere practitioners of expression nothing possible to do. There is perhaps not a thought, or feeling, or situation really common or generic to human life on which he has not exercised his prerogative; and wherever he has once been woe to the man who comes after him. He has overgrown the whole system and face of things like a universal ivy, which has left no wall uncovered, no pinnacle unclimbed, no chink unpenetrated. Since he lived the concrete world has worn a richer surface. He found it great and beautiful, with stripes here and there of the rough old coat seen through the leafy labors of his predecessors; he left it clothed throughout with the wealth and atumnal luxuriance of his own unparalleled language.—British Quarterly Review.

To Catch a Canary.

[After the Danburian]

At this season of the year, when it behooves us to scrub and re-gravel our bird-cages, it's more than likely that your canary will get out.

In such a case prompt and decisive action is required. It is useless for the whole family to collect and shout at the canary and make desperate attempts to waft pocket-handkerchiefs over him. Life is too short to be wasted in this way.

And maddened efforts to clap hats over him generally amount to little, especially when he is up a tree.

And just here we may remark, that there are few methods of taking exercise that may be relied upon to hold out like that of following a loose canary around a village, reaching out at arm's length towards him a good-sized bird-cage, and endeavoring by a series of monotonous and irrelevant chirps to make believe he wants to go in.

Sugar and cuttle-fish bone, as engines to seduction, are not to be depended upon. The average conversion into cages by sugar of the ordinary canary of North America is in the proportion of a wheelbarrowful of the one to a feather of the other.

We will also state in this connection that a man with new shoes on, and a big cage in one hand, can furnish an interesting spectacle to offer forty bystanders by simply climbing a tree to offer wiry blandishments to an enfranchised canary.

The real way to catch a loose canary, and the only way which can be warranted for a term of years, is to collect all your friends and family and post them around the tree or fence where the canary is at bay. Let them all furnish themselves with plenty of bits of kindling wood, sods of grass, lumps of dirt, hunks of brick, curry-combs, bootjacks, porter-bottles, and other handy missiles, and let them fire away boldly at the canary. If the bird cowardly turns tail and flies of, let everybody follow and slam-bang at him with their utmost vigor. It will be hard to confine this entertainment to your immediate circle No boy whose heart is in the right place and who has any legs will refrain from the pursuit, and there are men who will leave a dentist's chair to mingle in the fray. There are cases, too, where a funeral would hang by a thread, as it were, in the vicinity of a canary-hunt. Even from the windows of upper rooms, where sickness or dishabille may detain unfortunate enthusiasts, there will come, ever and anon, a frantic wash-bowl or a whizzing lamp-chimney to testify the universality of the public interest. Of course, in this rapid free distribution of fire-wood and paving material, it will not be long before several of your relations will wish they had brought a tin umbrella along. But considerations of mere personal comfort must not be allowed to interfere. If you keep this thing up long enough, and you all fire pretty straight, you'll be sure to get your canary. And then you can have him stuffed. Beautiful glass eyes can be had for twenty cents a pair, but you had better buy your glass eyes by the dozen, for of course you'll soon be getting another canary, so as not to waste the cage.—Scribner's for June

Quite a force of men are now employed at work on the road leading from Corvallis to Yaquina Bay.

It is astonishing some of the best financiers in the country that the easier condition in monetary affairs does not make itself more generally felt, as the time when it should come, as predicted, has fully arrived. The New York Independent of the 20th ult, says

It is always possible to make something like a trustworthy forecast of the condition of our money market when we base calculations on the financial condition of our own country, but since we are so intimately connected with all other commercial countries, it is difficult to make any calculations as to the future of money. Knowing what the course of currency would be, we had predicted an easy money market and higher prices for all classes of investment securities during the spring and summer and this prediction was beginning to be verified, when a wholly unlooked for trouble in Vienna, the extent of which we do not now fully know, has so disturbed financial affairs here that what seemed a week ago to be a certainty is now extremely dubious.

There has been a financial panic in Vienna, which has caused the suspension of a great number of commercial firms and speculators, though none of them of any great importance as far as their connections with this country are concerned, but Vienna is closely related to Berlin and Frankfort, and those commercial centers with London, and London with New York. Hamburg has also been seriously disturbed. The rates of discount have been general in all parts of Europe, the Bank of England has advanced its rates 1½ per cent, and it is now at 5 per cent, and Wall street is in a tremor and looking for something serious to happen, precisely what no one can definitely forsee.

The result of all these European disorders, so far as American securities are concerned, has not been serious, the market being affected only in respect to the dealings in speculative stocks and in the price of gold. The price of gold advanced to 118⅛, but by the end of the week it had declined again to 118, and the latest quotations from London being more encouraging, there does not appear to be much danger of a further advance.

LYON'S KATHAIRON

Only 50 Cents per Bottle.

It promotes the GROWTH, PRESERVES the COLOR, and increases the Vigor and BEAUTY of the HAIR.

OVER THIRTY YEARS AGO LYON'S KATHAIRON FOR THE HAIR was first placed in the market by Professor E. Thomas Lyon, a graduate of Princeton College. The name is derived from the Greek "KATHRO," signifying to cleanse, purify, rejuvenate, or restore. The favor it has received, and the popularity it has obtained, is unprecedented and incredible. It increases the GROWTH and BEAUTY of the HAIR. It is a delightful dressing. It eradicates dandruff. It prevents the Hair from turning gray. It keeps the head cool, and gives the hair a rich, soft, glossy appearance. It is the SAME IN QUANTITY and QUALITY as it was over a QUARTER of a CENTURY AGO, and is sold by all Druggists and Country Stores at only 50 Cents per Bottle.

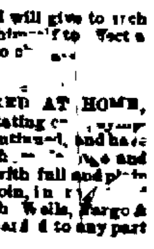
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated [illegible]

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his aid may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases,

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies, that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has years private practice [illegible] study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of those afflicted, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you will fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confusion of sight, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, [illegible] night sweats, [illegible]. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he has failed of this complaint by attending to the San Francisco [illegible].

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these painful maladies, should not fail to [illegible] tending upon [illegible] nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to such patients a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or charge no fee.

CURE YOURSELF!

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter, through the Post Office or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trade. Some are tinsmiths, shoe makers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

A Great consultants will please inform DR GIBBON that they saw this advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
